

College Preparatory Course Provider Applicants for CCMR Accountability List

The following lists indicate college preparatory course providers that have submitted a an interest form.

This indicates that the provider has received a unique application link to submit responses and related materials, such as memorandums of understanding (MOU), syllabi and course materials.

A provider applying for consideration to be an approved College Preparatory Course for CCMR Accountability:

- has served students in 2021-2022 and still be actively serving students,
- will apply by January 31, 2025 through Qualtrics application to the TEA that includes three .csv files containing previous college preparatory course participation (district Information for 2021-2022, 2022-2023, and 2023-2024),
- will undergo a quality review of the application by faculty reviewers from across the state

Institutional Partnerships and Eligibility Criteria

An institution that has completed an interest Form to apply for TEA’s CCMR accountability consideration will be noted in the column, “Completed TEA Interest Form” of the following chart. Texas College Bridge has completed a TEA Interest Form and an application on behalf of the Texas College Bridge participating institutions noted in the column, “Texas College Bridge Participating Institutions” in the second chart below.

School districts may not apply for approval on behalf of their institutional partners.

School districts that are partnered with an institution, ESC, program or partnership that is noted in the “Completed TEA Interest Form” column do not need to take any further action at this time.

School districts that are partnered directly with Texas College Bridge and have maintained a signed Participation, Data Sharing & Requirements Agreement do not need to take any further action at this time.
